

Back by popular demand! When a deal with the devil comes due, the immortal Dr. Parnassus (Christopher Plummer) must renegotiate the pact to save his daughter. Now, with the help of his mystical theater troupe and a mysterious stranger, Parnassus attempts to right the wrongs of his past. Heath Ledger (in his final film), Johnny Depp, Colin Farrell and Jude Law costar.

The Imaginarium of Dr. Parnassus

Directed by Terry Gilliam
 Fantasy * 2009 * 122 min * PG-13
 February 1st and 2nd

In director Dan Stone's documentary, Canadian activist Paul Watson and his team from the Sea Shepherd Conservation Society take aggressive steps to stop Japanese fishing ships from hunting whales. With a two-boat fleet and a helicopter for filming the whalers from the air, Watson and his crew of international volunteers use industrial-strength can openers, stink bombs and other unconventional combat gear to disable offending ships.

At the Edge of the World

Directed by Dan Stone
 Documentary * 2009 * 90 min * PG
 February 8th and 9th

FEBRUARY

2011
SILVER BOW

Free Admission!

FREE MOVIES EVERY TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY
 AT 8:00PM

Brad McCullum (Michael Shannon) begins to have visions that make him believe he's living in a Sophocles play in this psychological thriller inspired by true events. The visions Brad interprets as reality leads him to commit a brutal, bloody crime with a sword. Willem Dafoe costars as the intrepid cop who is piecing the crime together.

My Son, My Son, What Have Ye Done

Directed by Werner Herzog
 Psychological Thriller * 2009 * 93 min * R
 February 15th and 16th

French filmmaker Jean-Pierre Jeunet takes a satirical look at the global arms trade with this foreign-language comedy starring Dany Boon as Bazil, who rallies his friends to take down weapons manufacturers responsible for his father's death. Bazil also discovers a dump into an underground haven for cool tools and sculptures crafted from discarded junk.

Micmacs

Directed by Jean-Pierre Jeunet
 Foreign Comedy * 2009 * 104 min * R
 February 22nd and 23rd